Reflect on the lesson you taught today that was observed. Use the criteria on the observation form as prompts for your reflection. Record your response on this page. You may attach additional pages if necessary.

Did the lessons go well? Why or why not? (ample preparation/organization)

What would you change or retain in the future for similar lessons?

Focus on the Learning Experience:

Why did you choose the topic, instructional strategies, etc., for the group or the individual student? (students' interests, district standards, IEP goals, etc.)

How did you differentiate the content/skills/processes for the needs of the diverse learner?

What curriculum models did you use/consider/as you planned the lesson?

Did you consider the model(s) effective in accomplishing the lesson aim?

Could the lesson have included more creative teaching/learning strategies?

How did you structure the assessment? How will the results be used?

Your reflection can include aspects the observer may not pick up in the relatively short time you are observed.
